Course description: This is a comparative introduction to politics in Quebec and Ontario, and also to the use of the comparative method in political science. The course begins with a brief overview of the origins and development of the state in each province, stressing the role of social and economic context in shaping politics. In the 4th lecture, a framework is then proposed for the comparative study contemporary politics in these jurisdictions. The remaining eight lectures evaluate the value of this framework for comparing specific aspects of politics and policy in them. The last five lectures reflect recent research by the instructor. In their essays, students will have an opportunity to use case-based comparative methods that are now widely recommended for qualitative scholarship in political science to compare a particular aspect of politics or policy in Ontario and Quebec. The approach used in this course reflects current comparative political economy scholarship in political science. Developments regarding particular aspects of politics and policy are linked to features of each province’s state as a whole; and the latter is related to economic life and social relations.

Students are expected to attend all lectures and complete all assigned readings. You will also be required to submit a 10-12 page essay in class on March 21st.

Required Readings:

All required readings will be available on the course Blackboard page.

Getting in touch with me: I keep 2 hours of office time each week during term (see above). You can drop by and see me then. If you cannot make it to the office at those times, phoning the office during office hours is a good option. Otherwise, the best way to get in touch with me is by e-mail. I check this fairly regularly, and will respond as quickly as possible. I endeavour to respond to messages within a day or two. E-mail messages are most appropriate when your question is procedural in nature. I encourage you to visit my office during office hours or speak to me at break or after class if you have substantive questions about understanding the course material or preparing your essay assignment, at least if these questions are fairly involved. If you cannot attend my office hours, please e-mail me, or speak to me at class, to arrange an alternative meeting time.

Grades and grading: If you wish to appeal a grade assigned by a TA, you will have to approach your TA first, with a 150-200 word written explanation of why you wish to have the grade reviewed. Only after this step has been completed, and the paper has been re-evaluated by the TA, will I consider the matter. I will only adjust an assigned grade if I feel that it is egregiously wrong – i.e., if the grade is off by 5% or more.

If the grade was assigned by me in the first place, please return the assignment to me with a 150-200 word written explanation of your reasons for requesting a re-evaluation.

Please note that the drop deadline for courses this term is March 10th, 2013.
