

We mourn the passing of a respected colleague and friend, indefatigable scholar, dedicated teacher, and beloved mentor to generations of faculty members and students. Professor Stephen Clarkson first attended the University of Toronto as an undergraduate student (BA 1959). He later joined the Department of Political Economy (now Political Science) in 1964, as he completed his doctorate from the Fondation National des Sciences Politiques, Sorbonne, Université de Paris. In the decades that followed, his scholarly influence was wide-ranging, and he remained a passionate promoter of Canada. Stephen was especially devoted to his students, and he saw his teaching as the most important part of his academic career.

Please join us in honouring Professor Clarkson's many contributions to the Department of Political Science by making a donation to the scholarship he established in 2013. The Stephen Clarkson Scholarship in Political Economy will support undergraduate students based on academic merit and financial need, while also acknowledging his legacy at the University of Toronto. Thank you for your support.
