Introduction:

The goals of the course are twofold: first to discuss some major theories of public opinion, participation and voting. And second, to provide an opportunity to sharpen analytical and empirical skills.

Prerequisite Requirement:

Completion of POL 242 (Intro to Research Methods)
The expectation is that students are able to open a dataset and perform basic statistical tests on their own.

Datasets:

The course encourages students to use data from the 2011 Canadian Election Study or the 2005 World Values datasets for your research paper. The datasets can be downloaded from Blackboard.

1. Canadian Election Study. [dataset]
2. World Values Survey 2005 Official Data File v.20090901. 2009. World Values Survey Association. [dataset]

Course Format:

One two-hour lecture per week. A graduate student T.A. will be available in the Pol Sci computer lounge, 3rd floor of Sidney Smith to assist students with methodological questions or practical issues regarding the use of the datasets.

Course Requirements:

Research Proposal (due Oct. 23) 20%

Research Paper (due Nov. 29)	50%
Final Exam (TBA)	30%

(Late papers will be taxed at 3% per day)

Plagiarism:

Plagiarism is a serious academic offense and professors are required to report these offenses to the Office of Student Academic Integrity. It is not sufficient merely to list your sources in the bibliography or to only use footnotes. You must ensure that you identify and attribute all of your sources in text, whether you are quoting them directly or paraphrasing them.

For a more complete explanation please see <http://www.writing.utoronto.ca/advice/using-sources/how-not-to-plagiarize> and <http://www.writing.utoronto.ca/advice/using-sources/documentation> for two important documents entitled How Not to Plagiarize and Standard Documentation Formats respectively.

If you require further assistance concerning how to properly reference and footnote your work, please consult one of the many guides available in the library or the Writing Center.

Normally, students will be required to submit their course essays to Turnitin.com for a review of textual similarity and detection of possible plagiarism. In doing so, students will allow their essays to be included as source documents in the Turnitin.com reference database, where they will be used solely for the purpose of detecting plagiarism. The terms that apply to the University's use of the Turnitin.com service are described on the turnitin.com web site.
