Academic Integrity

Academic integrity is fundamental to learning and scholarship. Participating honestly, respectfully, responsibly, and fairly in this academic community ensures that the University of Toronto degree that you earn will be valued as a true indication of your individual academic achievement, and will continue to receive the respect and recognition it deserves.

Familiarize yourself with the University's Code of Behaviour on Academic Matters (link). It is the rulebook for academic behaviour at the U of T, and you are expected to know the rules. Potential offences include, but are not limited to:

In papers and assignments

- Using someone else's ideas or words without appropriate acknowledgement.
- Copying material word-for-word from a source (including lecture and study group notes) and not placing the words within quotation marks.
- Submitting your own work in more than one course without the permission of the instructor.
- Making up sources or facts.
- Including references to sources that you did not use.
- Obtaining or providing unauthorized assistance on any assignment including:
 - working in groups on assignments that are supposed to be individual work;
 - having someone rewrite or add material to your work while “editing.”
- Lending your work to a classmate who submits it as his/her own without your permission.

On tests and exams

- Using or possessing any unauthorized aid, including a cell phone.
- Looking at someone else's answers
- Letting someone else look at your answers.
- Misrepresenting your identity.
- Submitting an altered test for re-grading.

Misrepresentation

- Falsifying or altering any documentation required by the University, including doctor's notes.
- Falsifying institutional documents or grades.

To remind you of these expectations, and help you avoid accidental offences, we will ask you to include a signed Academic Integrity Checklist with every assignment (downloadable from Quercus). If you do not include the statement, your work will not be graded. Normally, students will be required to submit their essays to Turnitin (via Quercus) for a review of textual similarity and detection of possible plagiarism. In doing so, students allow their essays to be included as source documents in the Turnitin.com reference database where they are used solely for detecting plagiarism. Terms that apply to the University's use of the Turnitin.com service are described on the Turnitin.com website.

The University of Toronto treats cases of academic misconduct very seriously. All suspected cases of academic dishonesty will be investigated following the procedures outlined in the Code. The consequences for academic misconduct can be severe, including a failure in the course and a notation on your transcript. If you have any questions about what is or is not permitted in this course, please do not hesitate to contact your TA. If you have questions about appropriate research and citation methods, seek out additional information from your TA, or from other available campus resources like the University of Toronto's Writing website (link). If you are experiencing personal challenges that are having an impact on your academic work, please speak to your TA or seek the advice of your college registrar.

Course Accessibility

Students with diverse learning styles and needs are welcome in this course. In particular, if you have a disability/health consideration that may require accommodations, please feel free to approach TA Stefan Ferraro (stefan.ferraro@utoronto.ca) and/or the Accessibility Services Office as soon as possible.

Accessibility Services staff (located at 455 Spadina Ave., 4th floor, Suite 400) are available by appointment to assess specific needs, provide referrals, and arrange appropriate accommodations. Information on these services can be found on their website (link). Accessibility Services can also be reached by phone (416-978-8060) or email (accessibility.services@utoronto.ca). The sooner you let them know your needs, the quicker they can assist you in achieving your learning goals in this course.

Other Supports for Students

Students also have access to mental health and safety, and research and writing resources:

Mental Health & Safety

- Guide to available resources (link).
- Health & Wellness Centre (link).

*Research & Writing

- Research and writing guide (link).
- Chicago Manual of Style citation guide (link).
- Writing Centres (link).

Research and writing resources will be made available through Quercus. Effective research and writing strategies will also be discussed in tutorial. However, TAs are not able to proof-read entire assignments before they are due. One-on-one assignment consultations are available through the Writing Centres.*

Essays

Keep rough and draft work as well as hard copies of your essays until assignments are returned.

Essays should provide a clear, concise response (argument) to the research question backed by rational consideration of the evidence. Essay topics will be distributed separately in the first and second terms.

Summarize your response (argument) in a sentence or two – the thesis statement – in the first paragraph of your essay. Be explicit. The reader should be clear on what you are arguing. Assume an educated reader. Do not spend more than a few paragraphs providing background information. Focus on providing information that advances your argument. The balance of the paper will defend your argument but should also acknowledge counterarguments and seek to demonstrate that your argument is superior.

The essay must be between 1,900 and 2,100 words (excluding the bibliography and footnotes where applicable). Use 12 pt. Times New Roman font with standard one-inch margins. Include a title page with your name, the date, the course number, your TA's name, and your tutorial section. In addition, you are required to affix a Statement of Academic Integrity (downloadable from Quercus) to your essay before submitting it to Turnitin. Your TA will provide further instructions regarding the expectations for the essay.

Submitting to Turnitin (via Quercus)

Your paper must be submitted to Turnitin to check for textual similarity. This is done automatically when you upload your paper to Quercus under the "Assignments" tab (link). There is no need to submit a hardcopy of your paper, but one must be made available on request.

Citation Frequency & Format

Cite all facts and figures that are not common knowledge in your essays. You must cite all ideas borrowed from other authors.

Use the Chicago author-date citation format for your essay assignments. Failure to do so will result in a substantial penalty in calculating your assignment grade. If you have any questions about proper citation practices, you should consult with your TA and/or the Chicago Manual of Style online (link). Citation-style will also be discussed in tutorial in advance of the essay assignments.

Essay Deadlines, Late Penalties, and Extension Request

Essays must be submitted to Turnitin (via Quercus) by 11:59pm on the day that they are due (link), otherwise a late penalty of 2% per day will be applied. What this means, is that if your paper is submitted at 12 am the next morning, it will be considered late. Please budget your time accordingly. There is no need to submit a hardcopy of your paper, but one must be made available on request.

Extensions will be granted for essays only in cases of documented medical problems or of documented family emergencies. Requests are to be directed to TA Stefan Ferraro (stefan.ferraro@utoronto.ca). You must make a reasonable effort to contact Stefan as soon as the problem arises, inform him of the problem, and present your documentation. Requests received after the due date for essays are unlikely to be approved. All extensions granted will be done in writing and for a fixed period of time. If you are requesting an extension based on a medical illness, you must complete and submit the University of Toronto's Verification of Student Illness or Injury form (link).

We are not obliged to grant an extension. We are not obliged to accept automatically any medical note you submit as valid. The medical note should establish that the physician examined and diagnosed you at the time of your illness, not after the fact. If you submit a falsified or altered medical note you are liable to penalty. In short, you need to make arrangements before the assignment is due, at a minimum informing Stefan and providing the required documentation.

Term Test and Make-up Tests

Term tests will be administered during the regularly scheduled lecture period on the date listed above. Term test locations are TBA. Please arrive a few minutes early. You must bring your valid UofT Student I.D. with you.

Only students who miss a term test because of documented medical problems or family emergencies may be entitled to write a makeup test. The standard of documentation required is the same as for essay extensions (see above). Students should notify TA Stefan Ferraro (stefan.ferraro@utoronto.ca) as soon as possible that they will be missing the test. After the date of the missed test, you have one week to ask if it is possible to write a makeup test. The Faculty of Arts & Sciences' policy regarding makeup tests is set out in the "Rules and Regulations" section of the Faculty of Arts & Science Calendar (link).

Writing a make-up test is a privilege, not a right. Without submission of appropriate documentation and permission of the professor you will not be allowed a makeup test.

Appeals of essay and test grades

A half page written explanation must accompany any appeal. You must submit the appeal to your TA first. Appeals may result in an increase or decrease to a mark.

You are entitled to the mark your work merits. You are not entitled to the mark you think you personally deserve, or you need in order to achieve your personal goals such as getting into law school or graduate school, staying in university, raising your mark in the course to the next letter grade level, maintaining your GPA at a certain level, etc. Do not lobby to raise your mark simply because you want a higher mark. This is a waste of your time.

There are no provisions for students to do extra work or extra assignments to make up for low grades on any of the assignments.

Tutorials

Tutorials are an essential component of the course. Your TA will help you understand the material, write good essays, and prepare you for the tests. Tutorial participation is marked on a cumulative basis throughout the entire course. Develop strategic reading practices when preparing for the tutorial. For example, ask yourself the following questions when you are reading:

- Do I understand the basic terms and concepts used by the author?
 - Keep a list of difficult concepts and bring it to the tutorial group.
- What is the central point or argument that the author is trying to make?
 - Write in a couple of sentences what you think is the main point of the reading (and keep this to study later).
- How has the author organized his or her argument? What are the major themes?
 - Note the logical steps in the author's argument. Do these make sense? Is the author's evidence persuasive?
- How does the reading relate to other course material?
 - Do the authors say anything new or are they just repeating conventional wisdom? Do they help prove or counter points made in another week's readings?

You should continually reflect on your participation in tutorial. Ask yourself after each tutorial meeting:

- Did I initiate discussion?
- Did I provide some helpful information?
- Did I offer positive opinions or reactions?
- Did I offer negative opinions or reactions?
- Did I ask for positive or negative opinions or reactions?
- Did I disagree with someone I thought was wrong?
- Did I try to restate what someone else had said to ensure I understood?
- Did I give examples when they were needed?
- Did I ask others to provide some examples?
- Did I try to synthesize or summarize a part of the discussion?
- Did I ask someone to synthesize or summarize a part of the discussion?
- Did I encourage or help others in the group?

The grades assigned for tutorial participation will take into account both attendance and contributions to tutorial discussions. However, attendance alone will not guarantee a good tutorial grade.
