POL 379/USA 313: CIVIL LIBERTIES IN THE UNITED STATES

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO

FALL 2018

Dr. Connor Ewing

connor.ewing@utoronto.ca

Schedule: Friday 10:00am-12:00pm
Location: Health Sciences 106
Office Hours: Tues. & Thurs. 12:00-2:00 pm, Larkin 215

Course Description

This course offers a survey of American constitutional law in the area of civil liberties. The general domains of doctrinal development to be covered include: fundamental rights; freedoms of speech, press, and assembly; freedom of (and freedom from) religion; rights to privacy and autonomy; the guarantees of due process and equal protection of the laws; sexual and familial rights; and economic and socio-economic rights (or their absence). To make sense of the jurisprudential developments in each of these areas, the course will also take account of broader trends in legal history, social transformation, and constitutional interpretation.

Course Objectives

This course is intended to:

• provide students with an understanding of the content and development of American civil rights jurisprudence;
• expose students to the fundamentals of legal reasoning, including the role and use of rules, standards, precedent, and fact patterns; and
• develop legal reasoning skills through engagement with written sources and the production of legal arguments.

Course Text

* Available at the University of Toronto Bookstore. Reading assignments are based on this edition of the text. Earlier versions do not include many of the cases we will read and discuss.
Academic Integrity

The University of Toronto treats cases of plagiarism very seriously. The Code of Behaviour on Academic Matters outlines the behaviours that constitute academic dishonesty and the procedures for addressing academic offenses. If you have questions or concerns about what constitutes appropriate academic behaviour or research and citation methods, you should seek information from your instructor or other university resources. (See http://www.utoronto.ca/academicintegrity/resourcesforstudents.html.)

Accessibility

The University provides academic accommodations for students with disabilities in accordance with the terms of the Ontario Human Rights Code. For information on services and resources, see http://www.studentlife.utoronto.ca/as.

Late Penalty Policy

For assignments submitted after the due date, a penalty of 5% per day of lateness will be assessed. For assignments due over the course of the term (e.g., response papers), it is the responsibility of the student to ensure that the minimum number are submitted before the conclusion of the term.

Re-Marking Policy

If you believe an assignment or exam has been incorrectly graded, there is the opportunity for re-marking. To initiate this process, you must submit a brief written statement outlining why you believe you deserve a higher mark. This statement should be submitted no sooner than 2 but no more than 7 days after the assignment or exam is returned. Your assignment or exam will then be remarked in full and the new mark, whether higher or lower than the original, will be final.

Marking Scheme

- Participation: 15%
  - Two “free passes”: If for any reason you are unprepared to participate in class, you can notify me before class (via email or in person) twice with no penalty to your participation grade.
- Case Brief (due Sept. 28): 10%
- Critical Analysis Brief (due Dec. 5): 15%
- Case Outlines: 5%
  - Weeks 2-6 (due Oct. 19): 2.5%
  - Weeks 8-12 (due Dec. 5): 2.5%
- Midterm Examination (Oct. 19): 25%
- Final Examination (TBA): 30%

RESOURCES

The University of Toronto has many resources to help you succeed in your academic pursuits.

If you are feeling overwhelmed or distressed, help is available. Please contact or visit your college registrar's office. To find your college registrar, go here http://www.artsci.utoronto.ca/newstudents/nextsteps/contact.

You may not know about the wide range of excellent writing resources on campus. These include:

- College writing centres: http://writing.utoronto.ca/writing-centres/arts-and-science/. The teaching approach of the college writing centres is described at http://writing.utoronto.ca/writing-centres/learning/.

- Writing at the University of Toronto: http://writing.utoronto.ca.

- More than 60 advice files on all aspects of academic writing are available at http://advice.writing.utoronto.ca. A complete list of printable PDF versions are listed at http://advice.writing.utoronto.ca/student-pdfs/.

- You may also wish to refer to “How Not to Plagiarize” and other resources on documentation format and methods of integrating sources; these are listed in the section at http://advice.writing.utoronto.ca/using-sources/.

- The University of Toronto also has an excellent Writing Plus workshop series, described at http://writing.utoronto.ca/writing-plus/.

- Information about the English Language Learning program (ELL) is available at http://www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/advising/ell. One of ELL's programs is the Communication Café, which meets weekly at five different times and locations for the first seven weeks of each term for practice with oral skills like class discussion and presentations. ELL also sponsors an online program called Reading eWriting, which helps students engage course readings more effectively.

As a student of a Trinity College course, you are welcome and encouraged to use the John W. Graham Library and its extensive resources. There is library staff available to assist you with using the collections and conducting research. The home page of the Graham library is here: https://www.trinity.utoronto.ca/Library_Archives/

You are encouraged to meet with one of the librarians to devise a research topic and develop your final paper. The librarians can also assist you with locating primary sources and constructing a proper bibliography.
