Office hours: Trinity College, Room #309N
Munk School, 1 Devonshire Pl.
Mondays, 12-1pm (other times by arrangement)
Telephone: 416-946-8952

Synopsis:

This combined undergraduate-graduate course analyzes the relationship of military force to politics. Nuclear war and deterrence, conventional war, revolutionary war, terrorism, counter-insurgency, cyberwar, and drone warfare are examined from the perspectives of the U.S., Russia, China, and other contemporary military powers.

Foreign policy provides the context within which one should examine the existence of and the utility of the military instrument of foreign policy. And, as Henry Brandon has said, foreign policy begins at home. Therefore, the introductory part of the course deals with the theory and politics of civil-military relations and examines the military establishments of the major powers with special emphasis on those of the USA, Russia/CIS, and China. This section will also explore the problems of measuring equivalence.

The second part investigates the various theories of conflict, the problems of nuclear war and deterrence, the diverse forms of conventional war, and the efficacy of war termination strategies. The final section contains case studies of some of these problems.

The aim of this course is to help acquaint students of international relations with the vital importance of the military instrument in the formulation and implementation of foreign policy and in the functioning of the international system. It is also hoped that thus they will be able to employ additional tools of analysis in the study of international relations.

Course Requirements:

1. Two papers: 10-15 double-spaced pages (each). First paper due November 19, 2018. Second paper due March 11, 2019. Each paper is worth 30%. Graduate students will present one paper, 25-30 double-spaced pages due March 11, 2019. (60%)
2. Two reaction papers to any of the readings: 1 page double-spaced (each). First reaction paper due November 12, 2018. Second reaction paper due March 11, 2019. Each paper is worth 5%.
3. Seminar presentations (one per term), and participation (30%) Seminar presentations are up to 15 minutes each.

Late Penalty: 2% per day (includes weekends)

Agenda:

Each week students will be directed to some specific readings, both current and “classical”, within each topic. The student presenters are encouraged to research and read considerably more widely on the topic when they address the particular seminar.

Prerequisite: POL 208Y, or permission of instructor.
