Course objective and description
This course provides a broad survey of politics in East and Southeast Asia (the Asia-Pacific region). The region is vast and diverse. While many countries experienced centuries of colonial rule, others were only indirectly affected. The rise of nationalism and communism in the early twentieth century transformed the region’s political systems in fundamental ways. The Cold War, during which the United States and the Soviet Union competed on a global scale, also divided the region along communist/non-communist lines.

Industrialization and rapid economic growth transformed many countries from peasant societies to modern, urban and industrial countries. Other countries remained poor and were left behind as their neighbours often underwent vast political and economic changes. All of these forces of change have greatly influenced the political systems in the region, the ways in which groups and individuals participate in politics, and the degree to which political institutions are representative.
The course offers an analysis of the political systems of the region with an emphasis on understanding political change and its relationship to socio-economic transformation. How can we characterize the various political systems of the region? How can we explain why and how they have changed? Are Asian countries becoming more democratic? Are they developing political systems that reflect their unique historical and cultural experiences? How has the vast socio-economic transformation of the region influenced politics?

Quercus:
The University of Toronto is using Quercus. You will need your UTORid and password. Logon at http://q.utoronto.ca

The Instructors and Teaching Assistants will use Quercus as the primary means of delivering course communication. Course announcements are not, by default, connected to your UofT email and settings must be updated for the link to occur.

For help and information, please contact the help desk through the quercus website.

DO NOT direct your Quercus specific questions to instructors or TAs. We are unable to provide support for the web-based software. There are special services that you should consult. You should access the course regularly to check for announcements, broadcasts, etc.

General Resources:
The following list of resources in English should be useful to keep up with current events, as well as sources of general information on Asia.

Newspapers and News magazines
BBC News – Asia Pacific (http://www.bbc.co.uk/news/world/asia_pacific)
Yahoo Asia News (http://asia.news.yahoo.com/asia.html)
The Economist
The Asian Wall Street Journal
The Financial Times
The New York Times
The Straits Times (Singapore)

Journals
Pacific Affairs
Pacific Review
Asian Survey
Asia-Pacific Viewpoint
Journal of Asian Studies
Journal of East Asian Studies
Journal of Contemporary Asia
Journal of Southeast Asian Studies
Note: How to keep up with the news.
Canadian news coverage of Asia is appallingly thin. As indicated above, you need to use web-based electronic journals and news sources subscribed to by the University of Toronto library. Coverage is fairly good. Yahoo and BBC News are a good start, as well as The New York Times and the Financial Times. The Economist features updates on all the countries that we are studying. The Asian Survey features annual national surveys written by specialists.

Please note: We are using a university wide service called Turnitin. Normally, students will be required to submit their course essays to Turnitin.com for a review of textual similarity and detection of possible plagiarism. In doing so, students will allow their essays to be included as source documents in the Turnitin.com reference database, where they will be used solely for the purpose of detecting plagiarism. The terms that apply to the University's use of the Turnitin.com service are described on the Turnitin.com website.

You must submit an electronic copy of your essay to Turnitin (unless prior permission is granted by the TA), AS WELL as a hardcopy. Turnitin is now integrated with Quercus under the link “Assignment Submission”

Textbooks:
The following book is required reading for the course:

Available at the University of Toronto Bookstore, Koffler Centre, 214 College Street (416) 640-7900. Monday - Friday: 8:45 am - 6:00 pm; Saturday: 10:00 am - 5:00 pm; Sunday: CLOSED.
