COURSE DESCRIPTION

Despite the pessimism that sometimes surrounds the European Union today, European integration remains one of the most important and successful political experiments in recent history. This course looks at the historical impetus for European integration after the Second World War and to the recent trends in this process, as well as its future prospects as the Union’s borders enlarge and it confronts new challenges. The emphasis is on the impact that integration and the prospects of integration have on the potential member states and the countries bordering the Union. It also examines the European Neighborhood Policy (ENP) and the Eastern Partnership (EaP) that works with states that are likely to remain outside the Union but seek enhanced cooperation.

The course provides a brief overview of the salient issues in the past enlargement rounds, furnishing the context for the study of current and future integration efforts. Readings will cover the recent rounds (2004 and 2007) of enlargement to the Central and East European countries, continuing with efforts related to South-Eastern Europe (the Balkans), as well as Turkey. Issues between the EU, Ukraine, Russia and the Caucasus will also be studied. The course also includes a module on the challenges posed by populism to the integration project.

In addition to an introductory session that examines the antecedents and theory behind European integration, there are five distinct sections: (i) Central Europe plus Bulgaria and Romania, (ii) The Balkans, (iii) The former USSR – Russia, Moldova, Ukraine and the Caucasus (iv) Turkey and the Mediterranean Area with a section on Cyprus, (v) Contemporary Challenges which looks at the key issues faced by the Union in 2015 - 2020. In addition to weekly readings, students will view a number of documentaries.

On Academic Integrity:

Academic integrity is essential to the pursuit of learning and scholarship in a university, and to ensuring that a degree from the University of Toronto is a strong signal of each student’s individual academic achievement. As a result, the University treats cases of cheating and plagiarism very seriously. The University of Toronto’s Code of Behaviour on Academic Matters (http://www.governingcouncil.utoronto.ca/policies/behaveac.htm) outlines the behaviours that constitute academic dishonesty and the processes for addressing academic offences. Potential offences include, but are not limited to:

In papers and assignments:
- Using someone else’s ideas or words without appropriate acknowledgement.
- Submitting your own work in more than one course without the permission of the instructor.
- Making up sources or facts.
- Obtaining or providing unauthorized assistance on any assignment.

On tests and exams:
- Using or possessing unauthorized aids.
- Looking at someone else’s answers during an exam or test.
- Misrepresenting your identity.

In academic work:
- Falsifying institutional documents or grades.
- Falsifying or altering any documentation required by the University, including (but not limited to) doctor’s notes.

All suspected cases of academic dishonesty will be investigated following procedures outlined in the Code of Behaviour on Academic Matters. If you have questions or concerns about what constitutes appropriate academic behaviour or appropriate research and citation methods, you are expected to seek out additional information on academic integrity from your instructor or from other institutional resources (http://www.utoronto.ca/academicintegrity/resourcesforstudents.html).

On Accommodation:
The University provides academic accommodations for students with disabilities in accordance with the terms of the Ontario Human Rights Code. This occurs through a collaborative process that acknowledges a collective obligation to develop an accessible learning environment that both meets the needs of students and preserves the essential academic requirements of the University's courses and programs.
GRADING SCHEME

There are four components to the grade for the course that combine an exam, participation and different styles of writing. One of the key objectives of the course is to develop different writing skills.

1) 1st term essay (800 - 1000 words MAXIMUM) - 25% - Due 27 October 2020 – You will be expected to write an opinion piece on an issue of central importance for the EU in the period 2015-2020. We will discuss the format in detail in class. Students are encouraged to familiarize themselves with this style of essay by regularly reading similar pieces in the New York Times, Financial Times or other leading newspapers.

2) Take Home Test - 25% – Last class end of First Term (4 December 2020). The take home test answers in 2000-2500 words a question related to a key theme of the first term. This is a more classic research essay. The question will be posted on Quercus two weeks prior to the deadline for submission.

3) 2nd term essay (3000 words) - 40% – This is a more classical research essay. It must be on topic discussed with us in advance. This can be done during office hours or via email. Due – 23 March 2021.

4) Regular attendance and participation – 10%.

“Plagiarism is a serious academic offence and will be dealt with accordingly. For further clarification and information on plagiarism, please see Writing at the University of Toronto http://www.writing.utoronto.ca/advice/using-sources.”

The late penalty is 2% per day on all written assignments (including weekends).

READINGS

Textbooks

Course Texts:

The weekly readings listed below are available through the U of T Library database. There is no reading package. Students are not expected to read every article, but this list should serve as guidance for your major research paper. I have marked any priority readings with an asterisk. Additional readings from contemporary media and think tanks will be posted weekly on the course’s site.

As to texts, students could purchase the following book for a better understanding of how the European Union works:

*******

As historical knowledge of the region is critical for success in the class, students are expected to purchase and read Tony Judt, Postwar – A History of Europe Since 1945. New York: Penguin, 2005. Chapters 1 and 2 along with 18 through 24 are highly recommended for students.

Helpful Websites:

EU Official Site: http://www.europa.eu.int
European Union Studies Association: http://www.eustudies.org/home.html

Newspapers:

Students will also benefit from following the mainstream media in Europe. The best source for European issues is the Financial Times as well as the International Herald Tribune. Students will enjoy the course more if they read the Financial Times Weekend Edition. An excellent and current on-line news source is for Europe BBC News. The Economist also has an excellent blog on EU affairs, Charlemagne’s Notebook. For an economics and finance focus, read the Brussels Blog.

Another excellent web site with loads of great articles for your research is the European Council on Foreign Relations: http://www.ecfr.eu/
