

POL 469F & POL 2226F: ETHICS AND INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

Fall 2022, Monday 10-12, AH 306

Instructor: Professor Nancy Bertoldi

Email: nancy.bertoldi@chass.utoronto.ca

Office Hours: by appointment

COURSE DESCRIPTION

The course explores the possibilities for ethical action in international affairs. It is common to theorize international relations in terms of interests and power, but this fails to account for the frequent invocation of the language of justice and fairness in actual international interactions. Drawing on readings from political philosophy and normative international relations theory, the course takes up ethical dilemmas encountered in world affairs in the context of debates about intervention, development, and other applied issues chosen by students.

The course is a research-intensive seminar, where students conduct independent research on an approved topic of their choice of relevance to course themes that they present in a student conference at the end of the semester. Students receive several opportunities to develop and refine their research. Three course components serve that purpose: the research proposal, the research paper, and the research presentation. Students are expected to work closely with the instructor in all stages of their research and are encouraged to book meetings in office hours to receive feedback on their work.

COURSE READINGS

The following reading materials will be used in the course:

- Selected articles, books, and book chapters available electronically via U of T libraries or in online course reserves
- John Rawls, The Law of Peoples, (Harvard, 1999)

The books are available for short-term loan at Robarts Library. They are also available for purchase at U of T Bookstore or online. Different editions of the books (including kindle editions) are acceptable.

IMPORTANT DATES

Sep 21	Last day to add course
Oct 17	Proposal due
Nov 16	Last day to drop course
Nov 28	Paper due
Dec 5	Presentations 1
Dec 7	Last day to add or remove a CR/NCR option
Dec 8	Presentations 2
Jan 6	Last day to file a petition regarding term work
TBD	Last day to request late withdrawal at registrar

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Format and Delivery:

- The course will meet for 2 hours of in-person seminar discussion per week.
- Seminars presuppose familiarity with the readings, so students should complete reading assignments before the start of each week's seminar.

Evaluation and Grading:

- Performance in the course will be evaluated based on the following components:

Research Proposal (500 words)	15%
Research Paper (3500 words)	40%
Research Presentation (500 words for handout)	15%
Participation	30%
- The research proposal (15% of the final grade) will describe the research question that students plan to explore in their research paper and a brief description of the approach they expect to take to answer their question. The proposal must be accompanied by a detailed bibliography of relevant scholarly works that students will consult in their research. The bibliography does not need to be annotated. The selected research topic must be relevant to course themes and must be approved by the instructor. It is essential to start working on the proposal early. Students are encouraged to meet with the instructor to discuss their proposal ideas. Length: 500 words.
- The research paper (40% of the final grade) will provide an original ethical analysis and present the findings of the research students undertook on their approved topic. Additional instructions are provided below. Length: 3500 words.
- The research presentation (15% of the final grade) will entail a 5-minute oral presentation of the main findings of the research paper, accompanied by a written handout that will be distributed to the class, followed by a brief 5-minute question and answer period. Additional instructions are provided below. Length for handout: 500 words.
- Participation (30% of the final grade in total) will be assessed on a weekly basis based on a combination of class attendance, assigned just-in-time teaching tasks (JITTs) completed online, and informed participation in class discussions. Adequate preparation is essential. Students are responsible for making sure to sign the attendance sheet every week, which will be circulated at the beginning of class; otherwise, they will not receive attendance credit. Students who are unable to attend class due to legitimate reasons are expected to contact the instructor to arrange for make-up assignments for attendance and participation. Students who do not have access to google forms should inform the instructor immediately to arrange for alternatives.

COURSE POLICIES

Assignment Submission: All assignments must be submitted online on Quercus by 11:59 pm on their due dates. Students should also submit a hard copy at the Political Science Department on the next day.

Extensions and Make-ups: No extensions or make-ups will be granted on any assignments, unless students have acceptable reasons that are documented. Students who are absent from class for legitimate reasons (e.g. COVID, other illness or injury, family situation) and who require consideration for missed academic work should report their absence through the online absence declaration. The declaration is available on ACORN under the Profile and Settings menu. Students should also contact the instructor to request an appropriate accommodation. Appropriate documentation must be submitted within one week of missed term work. Assignments and tests from other courses scheduled for the same day, work commitments, or transportation problems do not constitute acceptable reasons, so students should plan accordingly in advance. No extensions will be granted on assignments beyond the date that marked assignments have been returned to the class.

Length Penalties: Students should include word counts on all written assignments. Assignments that are more than 10% longer or shorter than the assigned word count will be penalized by 5%.

Late Penalties: Late assignments will be penalized. The late penalty is 2% per late day, weekends included. The number of late days will be determined by submission times on Quercus. Late assignments will not be accepted after marked assignments have been returned to the class.

Plagiarism: All sources used in written assignments must be properly cited. Failure to acknowledge sources constitutes plagiarism—a serious academic offense. For more information, students should review “How Not to Plagiarize” and other advice on using sources at www.writing.utoronto.ca/advice/using-sources.

Plagiarism detection: Normally, students will be required to submit their course essays to the University’s plagiarism detection tool for a review of textual similarity and detection of possible plagiarism. In doing so, students will allow their essays to be included as source documents in the tool’s reference database, where they will be used solely for the purpose of detecting plagiarism. The terms that apply to the University’s use of this tool are described on the Centre for Teaching Support & Innovation web site (<https://uoft.me/pdt-faq>).

Grade Appeals: Students who have concerns about the mark they received can request that their work be remarked within two weeks after their marked assignments have been returned. Appeal requests must be submitted in writing and must include a statement of the substantive reasons that student have for their request and what students feel was overlooked in the marking of their work. Appeals must be submitted in writing to the instructor. In accordance with the Faculty of Arts and Science policies, grades may go up, stay the same, or go down in the appeals process.

Code of Conduct: The University of Toronto expects all its members to behave responsibly and with courtesy and respect for others at all times. The University of Toronto is committed to equity, human rights and respect for diversity. All members of the learning environment in this course should strive to create an atmosphere of mutual respect where all members of our community can express themselves, engage with each other, and respect one another’s differences. Students should make sure to read the University’s Student Code of Conduct <<https://governingcouncil.utoronto.ca/secretariat/policies/code-student-conduct-december-13-2019>> and the University’s policy on the Appropriate Use of Information and Communication Technology <<https://www.provost.utoronto.ca/planning-policy/information-communication-technology-appropriate-use/>>.

RESOURCES

Accessibility Services: The instructor is fully committed to providing students with fair access to their courses. Students with special needs or disabilities are strongly encouraged to register with Accessibility Services to arrange for needed accommodations.

Writing Support: Students can attend workshops and arrange one-on-one appointments for feedback on their written work. Students can visit www.writing.utoronto.ca for information and advice on all aspects of academic writing. Students are encouraged to make use of the college writing centers for individualized consultations on their written assignments. Interested students should book their appointments with the writing centers early, as they fill up fast. Information about the writing centers is available at <http://www.writing.utoronto.ca/writing-centres/arts-and-science>. Students can also take advantage of the Library's free "Writing Plus" academic skills workshop series, described at <http://www.writing.utoronto.ca/writing-plus>. International students can find information about the English Language Learning program (ELL), which includes practice opportunities for improving oral communication and critical reading skills, at <http://www.artsci.utoronto.ca/current/advising/ell>.

Registrar Support: Students are encouraged to contact their registrar promptly if they experience unexpected challenges during the course that may require accommodations.

Health and Wellness: Students can access a wide range of programs and services to support their health and wellbeing. Many of these programs are listed at: <https://studentlife.utoronto.ca/department/health-wellness/>

Crisis Support: You are not alone! Please reach out for help if you're experiencing distress. A range of free crisis lines and support services are available at the University of Toronto and the City of Toronto including:

- My SSP for University of Toronto Students: 1-844-451-9700.
- University of Toronto: <https://studentlife.utoronto.ca/task/support-when-you-feel-distressed/>
- City of Toronto: <https://www.toronto.ca/311/knowledgebase/kb/docs/articles/311-toronto/information-and-business-development/crisis-lines-suicide-depression-telephone-support-lines-non-crisis-mental-health-services.html>
- Good 2 Talk Student Helpline: 1-866-925-5454
- Gerstein Crisis Centre: 416-929-5200
- Distress Centres of Greater Toronto: 416-408-HELP (4357)
- The Centre for Addiction and Mental Health (CAMH): 250 College Street (walk-in)

Many of these crisis lines and services are available 24 hours a day and some have expertise in addressing specific problems that students may be experiencing. It is always a good idea to also inform your registrar of your circumstances as soon as you can.

Weeks 11 and 12: Research Presentations: No additional reading assignments.

PAPER INSTRUCTIONS

Write a research paper that undertakes an ethical analysis of an international issue to answer the research question that was approved in your proposal. This assignment is worth 40% of your final course grade.

Submit your paper on Quercus by 11:59 midnight on its due date. Please also submit a hard copy at the main desk of the political science department on the next day.

Make sure that your paper meets the following parameters:

- Your paper should be 3500 words in length, including all citations and the bibliography). Make sure to include a word count at the end of your paper. Papers that are more than 10% longer or shorter will be penalized with a length penalty of 5%. Significantly longer or shorter assignments may not be accepted.
- Your analysis should be ethical and it should be grounded in the relevant ethical scholarship on your topic.
- Your paper should provide a clear statement of your research question and the approach you took to address it.
- Your paper should develop a coherent central thesis that answers the research question and that frames the discussion of the paper. The central thesis should be well supported, both theoretically and textually/empirically, and well developed throughout the paper. Make sure to provide clear statements of the central ethical concepts you have relied on in formulating the central thesis. Remember also to always explicitly justify your choices and to explicitly give reasons for the positions you take.
- Your paper should demonstrate knowledge of your approved topic and your mastery of the relevant scholarly literature on it. The review of the scholarly literature should always be undertaken with the purpose of developing the necessary components of your central thesis.
- It makes for a stronger paper to consider and address positions that are different from your own. You should not set up straw men when doing this. Treating rival views fairly makes for a stronger paper.
- Cite all your sources carefully throughout. Use a parenthetical citation style of your choice consistently (either MLA or APA). Include a bibliography that lists all the works cited at the end of your paper. Consult the handouts “How not to plagiarize” and “Standard documentation formats” that are posted on Quercus to make sure you acknowledge sources correctly.
- Use good style, relevant terminology, and precise language. Avoid unnecessary jargon. Avoid overly long sentences. Check for spelling and grammar errors. Your paper should be double-spaced, in a standard font (no smaller than Times 12 or equivalent) and with normal margins (at least 1 inch).
- Late papers will be penalized with a late penalty of 2% per late day, weekends included. The number of late days will be determined by the submission time on Quercus.

PRESENTATION INSTRUCTIONS

The presentation (15% of the final grade in total) will give students the ability to set the agenda for seminar discussions and the opportunity to present their research findings to the class in a student conference. The exact schedule for the presentations will be announced in class and on Quercus.

Handout:

- Post a handout of your presentation that summarizes the main points of your paper on Quercus two days before your presentation date. Students should also bring hard copies of the handouts to distribute to the class on their assigned presentation date.
- The handout should clearly communicate the central thesis of your paper and the evidence for it. Central concepts and theoretical frameworks that are used should also be explained. Images are allowed and can be incorporated.
- Full sentences should be used at all times.
- All sources should be cited carefully throughout the handout with a parenthetical citation style. A bibliography should be attached (this is not included in the 500 words). A full bibliography that matches the paper's bibliography is not needed as this is a handout. Cite only the sources you rely on in the handout.
- Length for presentation handout: 500 words

Class Presentation: Individual dates will be announced.

- Prepare a 5-minute presentation to deliver to the class on your scheduled presentation date. Given class size, this is a rigid time limit and students will be stopped at the end of their time. Keep in mind that 5 minutes pass quickly and time management in delivering the presentation is essential. Students are strongly encouraged to practice delivering their presentation in advance.
- Presentations should clearly communicate the central thesis of the paper and the evidence for it.
- Use of online audio-visual or mixed media materials is allowed during the presentation, although students should make sure this does not come at the expense of communicating the main points of the research paper. Time is short, so do keep track of time.
- The class presentation will be followed by a 5-minute question and answer session, where students will have the opportunity to discuss each other's research in a conference-style setting.
