The broad goal of this seminar is to raise and explore important questions about identities. These will include but not be limited to the following: How are identities formed? How do they evolve over time? What do identities do in political economic life or what do people do with identities in political economic life? Why are some identities more politically salient than others? When do certain identities gain salience? What are the epistemological and ethical consequences of various ways of conceptualizing identities? We will discuss readings that focus on cases from around the world, even though dynamics in Africa will receive particular attention.

Format: This course will be in-person. It will be driven by student participation. Students should complete all readings before each class and be ready to critically engage with assigned readings as well as with the comments of other class participants. Readings are available electronically either as links through the library’s website or as PDFs. You can locate the electronic links and PDF files under library resources on the course page in Quercus. Books that are not available electronically can be found on short term loan – Course Reserve at Roberts Library. They may also be purchased online or at the University of Toronto Bookstore.

Breakdown of requirements and contribution to your final grade
- Class attendance: 12%
- Seminar participation: 24%
- Responses to weekly readings: 50%. These are supposed to be critical responses to the readings and should not summarize course materials. Each should be 2-3 double-spaced (Font 12, Times New Roman) pages long and should be handed in before the class whose readings it engages. Hand in a printed copy of your response to the instructor during the first 3 minutes of class. More than half of the responses should be submitted before week 7. It is better to critically engage one thread in the readings in a deep manner than to touch on multiple issues in a shallow way. Undergraduates should submit 5 responses. Graduate students should submit 7 responses. Submit your printed responses to the instructor before the start of the class whose readings you are responding to. Responses sent after class will not be accepted. Keep copies of all responses until the corrected assignment is returned to you.

- 15-minute joint class presentation by pairs of students: 14%: Discuss and agree with another student to do a joint presentation. Then discuss and agree on a date for your presentation with the instructor by the end of week 3 of the course.

Plagiarism

“Plagiarism is a serious academic offence and will be dealt with accordingly. For further clarification and information on plagiarism please see Writing at the University of Toronto http://www.writing.utoronto.ca/advice/using-sources.”

Accessibility Needs

The University of Toronto is committed to accessibility. If you require accommodations or have any accessibility concerns, please visit http://www.accessibility.utoronto.ca/ as soon as possible.

Course materials

The materials below are required readings that must be completed before class. Most are available electronically either as links through the library’s website or as PDFs. You can locate the electronic links and PDF files under library resources on the course page in Quercus. Books that are not available electronically can be found on short term loan – Course Reserve at Roberts Library. They may also be purchased online or at the University of Toronto Bookstore.

Week 1 : Essentialism

- Preoccupation: How does one define the pure and authentic substance of an identity?

- Reading:

Week 2 : Anti-essentialism

- Preoccupation: What are the pitfalls of the conceptualization of identity as a substance? Is identity best thought of as a quest?

- Readings

Week 3 : Créolité and a substance

- Preoccupation: How do we transcend the idea of authenticity as purity? What are the epistemological and ethical benefits of the conceptualization of identities as hybrid?

- Readings:

Week 4 : Creolization as a process

- Preoccupation: What are the benefits of a radical de-substantiating of discourses of Creoleness?

- Reading:

Week 5 : Creolization in the old world I: Africa

- Preoccupation: To what extent are the “original” contributions to Creole worlds contaminated?

- Readings:

Week 6 : Creolization in the old world II: Asia

- Preoccupation: To what extent are the “original” contributions to a Creole worlds contaminated?
• Reading:

Week 7: The nativism of the exiled

• Preoccupation: Does exile always facilitate encounters and openness?

• Reading:

Week 8: The weight of ethnicity

• Preoccupation: What is the salience of ethnicity in political life?

• Readings:

Week 9: Proximity and knowledge

• Preoccupation: What role does social proximity play in inter-group relations?

• Reading:

Week 10: Links and interactions I

• Preoccupation: Who is the stranger/other/foreigner?
• Reading:

  o Nyamnjoh, Francis. 2016. #RhodesMustFall: Nibbling at Resilient Colonialism in South Africa. (Bamenda: Langaa RPCIG)

Week 11: Links and interactions II

• Preoccupation: Do self/other dichotomies obfuscate more than they elucidate social interactions?

• Readings:

Week 12: The turmoil within

• Preoccupation: How placid and convivial are intra-group relations?

• Readings:

